

Wild About Nature X

A Natural History Series coordinated by Joy Markgraf

Displays created by Joy Markgraf will be on view during the month of April.

Refreshments provided by Suksdorfia Chapter of the Washington Native Plant Society and Friends of the White Salmon River

April 7 • 5:30–8 pm (Library)

5:30–Artist Reception

Northwestern Pond Turtles in the Columbia River Gorge

Carly Wickhem, Wildlife Biologist,
Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

Fisher Conservation in Washington: A Long, Exciting, and Ongoing Recovery Story of a Mysterious and Furry Critter

Jeff Lewis, Mesocarnivore Conservation Biologist,
Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

April 14 • 6–8 pm (Grange)

Giant Sloths and Sabertooth Cats:

The Extinct Ice Age Mammals of North America

Donald K. Grayson, Professor Emeritus,
Department of Anthropology, University of Washington

The Wolves in Washington

Gabriel Spence, Wolf Biologist,
Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

April 21 • 6–8 pm (Grange)

Women Plant Explorers in North America at the Turn of the 20th Century

Brian R. Thompson, MLS. Manager and Curator of Horticultural Literature, Elisabeth C. Miller Library

Flora of the North Pacific Rim

Professor Eric DeChaine

April 28 • 6–8 pm (Grange)

Watershed and Climate Resilience:

The Many Benefits of Living With Beavers

Alexa Whipple, Director of the Methow Beaver Project

Amphibians of the Columbia Gorge

Charlotte Corkran, Naturalist from the Northwest Ecological Research Institute

May 5 • 6–8 pm (Grange)

Observing Wildlife with Trail Cameras: A Citizen's Guide

Todd Jacobsen, Wildlife Conflict Specialist,
Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

Early Naturalists and Their Observations in the Columbia River Gorge

Dan Kolenbarg, Wildlife Conflict Technician,
Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

MOUNTAIN VIEW GRANGE #98 1085 N Main Ave, White Salmon

